THE DALLES, - - - - OREGON

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

From the Daily Chronicle, Friday. The Walla Walla fair will be on next week.

The rainfall at The Dalles last night measured .13 of an inch.

Senator Dolph will be in Pendleton next week. Says the Tribune.

A. Y. Marsh is still shipping cantaloupes to the Portland market.

Office stoves about the city were well warmed up for comfort this morning.

Mr. H. P. Isaacs, the Walla Walla flouring mill man, is in the city today.

Mr. Covington brought in two bunches of grapes that weighed nearly 5 lbs.

Mr. Geo. Ruch returned from Portland yesterday by steamer Regulator.

Justice Schutz returned from the Odd Fellows assembly at Portland on the noon passenger today.

N. Wheelon Esq. goes to the Portland exposition today in the interest of the Wasco county fruit growers.

Messrs. E. M. Williams, F. Faulkner and J. Hampshire are spending a few days taking in the sights at Portland.

A two-story warehouse, suitable for landings at the highest or lowest water, is to be built at the Regulator dock.

Miss Annie Thompson, who has been home to spend the vacation, has returned to the state normal school, Monmouth.

Judge Bradshaw, Judge Bennett and District Attorney Wilson are attending a term of the circuit court in Condon, Gilliam county.

A heavy fall of rain last night soaked the ground thoroughly. It was accompanied by a strong wind, amounting to nearly a hurricane.

The art windows for the new Congregational church have arrived. The dedication will take place on the 9th of October.

Mr. W. E. Garretson is in Oregon city today. Mrs. Garretson, who has been on a visit there, will return with him.

Mr. Sharp is prepared now to enter largely upon cider making. The Regulator yesterday brought him a fine large cider press from Portland.

Another United States fish commission car is in the Pacific northwest, in charge of G. H. Lambson, distributing black bass from Quincy, Illinois.

Capt. Haynes, of Buffalo, who arrived at The Dalles this week, comes to remain with us, and become identified in the future upbuilding of a city.

Dr. Saunders has just made a shipment of grapes to Saginaw friends, which, if they reach their destination all right will startle the wolverines.

Mrs. Smith French, Mrs. D. M. French and Mr. R. B. Hood left for Walla Walla yesterday to represent the M. E. Church of this city at the conference meeting.

Th. Nast's Weekly has made its appearance, hailing from New York city. It bears upon its pages the impressions of Nast's genius in political caricature.

There will be service in the Scandinavian language at the German Lutheran church on Ninth street on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. A. A. Dolven, pastor.

A train load of fine fat beef cattle was loaded at the stock yards today for Troutdale. They are another installment of 315 head sold by Messrs. Mays & Co.

It will not be healthy for the boys if they are caught by Marshal Maloney pelting the cattle in the pound. They should be severely punished for their cruelty.

The Baldwin stock company made a shipment of 350 fine thoroughbred bucks to Idaho yesterday. They were taken by Mr. J. M. Johnson, of Mountain Home.

Hon. J. B. Yeagley will speak at Hood River tomorrow at 1.30 p. m., and at The Dalles in the evening, at the Court house. He is a very able exponent of republican doctrines.

Joles Bros. yesterday made a shipment of peaches to J. Hill Case, of Portland, which were so large that only fifty to fifty-six peaches would fit into each box. They were raised by A. N. Varney.

The Grand Ronde fruit growers are finding a good market in Denver and considerable is being shipped to that point. The fruit crop in that valley is said to be far better than usual and of superior quality.

More red and white grapes, pears and apples are wanted by the committee in Portland, to fill up spaces in the Wasco exhibit at the exposition, and to replace any fruit that may be removed on account of decay.

The Olympia Tribune says the farmers in Eastern Washington are beginning to figure out that the opening of the Columbia would reduce the freight on wheat from $6 to $3 per ton whether they sent it to Tacoma or Astoria. This is a saving of nine cents a bushel, or $9 on every hundred bushels kept in their pockets instead of being handed over to the railroads, as now.

Mr. Geo. Snipes was in attendance at the opening of the exposition at Portland last night. He says Wasco takes the lead in fruits. The agricultural college display of vegetables is ahead of the balance of the state.

Frank D. Creighton and Mr. Klindt have added to the fame of Wasco county by contributions of choice grape samples. One bunch of Creighton's grapes weighed four and a half pounds. Six bunches went over three pounds each.

The Dalles Portland and Astoria Navigation company have decided not to be troubled any longer by small boats landed at their dock, and have given notice to the owners to come and take the boats away before they are sent adrift.

Rev. W. R. Butcher, writing from the desert Sept. 16th, to Mr. S. L. Brooks of The Dalles, says the contemplated trip to this part of the coast must be postponed in consequence of the sudden death of Mr. R. H. Avery, at Los Angeles, on the 14th, of peritonitis. He adds: "Our disappointment is great, and we realize that friends in Oregon share it, but we forget it in our sympathy for our sister and family, so sorely bereaved."

The first time we ever saw a patent mail pouch grabber catch at a pouch on a pole alongside the track, was at Celilo recently. Mayor Taffe had been extolling the virtues of the machine. All eyes were riveted on the sack, and as the train dashed by, the fork reached out, hit it a diff, and sent the pouch about fifty feet away. Mr. Taffe looked surprised, ran and got the sack, and placed it in the mail car; hurriedly turned about as the train was pulling out with his visitors and said: "Well; I never did see anything just like that!"

Some snow fell on the Klickitat hills yesterday morning early.

Judge and Mrs. Blakeley returned from Portland last evening.

Mr. A. J. Ahola, of the Farmers' mercantile company in Goldendale, is in the city.

Charles Clements who was arrested for appropriating money to his own use, was fined $30 by Justice Clark.

The war against smoke is driving the tug business out from Chicago. It may be a more "nice than wise" policy.

Six prisoners are now confined in the county jail on various charges. Soon they will be called on to appear before Judge Bradshaw to answer according to the statutes.

The free ferry plan is having its desired effects on the business of The Dalles. The people of Klickitat want to come here, and The Dalles people want them to come.

The coroner at Arlington sent the letter found upon Edwards, who was killed on Tuesday night, to the Portland chief of police. From inquiries made it is learned that the name of the man killed was Will Debord.

Twelve horses attached to a horse power, threshing wheat at Henry Mayhew's, near Kingsley, last week ran away. The Dispatch says one of the twelve was started by the derrick wagon coming in collision.

The Bellevue, Iowa, Herald, of the 20th, favorably notices the extra edition of THE CHRONICLE of the 13th, in which some comments are made concerning a very earnest, but modest young man of The Dalles, in business here, recently of Bellevue. The paper was addressed to Henry Maier.

Deputy United States Marshal Jameson went to Portland today with two prisoners for trial on charges of selling liquor to Indians. One of them appeared to be a young man whose intelligence and family connection ought to be sufficiently abiding to keep him out of such scrapes.

Dismissing priority of rights to the water of the east fork of Hood river, where the company represented by McCoy has filed upon 60,000 inches of water and a like amount from the west fork when the whole river at low water carries not to exceed 50,000 inches, the Glacier says there is "likely to be a severe dry spell in the river."

According to the September report of the condition of crops we learn some facts with regard to the apple crop, which will be of interest to fruit-growers. The average per cent. of crops in seven of the greatest apple states is only 39 per cent. Oregon has 65 per cent. of a full crop, which means good prices and fair profits.

Lake's mill engine, making a load of 7,640 lbs., was hauled out by I. B. Driver for Wamic. I. B., so the Dispatch says, is known as the safest and best heavy-weight reinsman in this section, this being the third large boiler he has taken into the Wamic country. He breaks his own horses and they never learn to balk.

Several views taken by Mrs. Hendrickson of Portland, of the camp of Mr. S. L. Brooks near Cascade Locks, and that of Messrs. Crum and Shontelle up Hermann creek, near the foot of the mountains, and of the Old Block House, at the Cascade, show that to be one of nature's most lovely regions for a summer outing.

United States Surveyor-General W. H. Byars has just received orders from the land department at Washington to have a number of important surveys made during the next few months in Oregon. The orders include the running, measuring and marking, according to law and instructions of about seventy-five townships.

From the Daily Chronicle, Monday.

The mitten from a girl has knocked out more men than the prize-fighter's glove ever did.

Misses Mary Fraser and Minnie Michell spent Saturday and Sunday at Hood River, returning last night.

Dr. Siddall, who has been absent a week may again be found at his office today.

The funeral of Mrs. Wenzler will take place at the M. E. church at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Friends of the family are invited to attend.

Frank Roach, a popular young man of The Dalles, has been suffering from insomnia for some time, last night night took an overdose of chloral, from the effects of which he died.

An unfortunate morphine fiend Frank Carbone of Cottage Grove, Cal., who has given The Dalles authorities lots of trouble, imposed upon the kind and genial Conductor Comer Saturday, by having several severe spasms on the route to Portland. His antics and his misery is enough to perpetually dam in hell fire the souls of every fiend who, for filthy lucre, would sell to a victim such as Frank is, one grain of the baneful drug.

We have lived in Portland. Twenty-eight years ago we assisted Barney Goldsmith to purchase the present consolidated city park, but until yesterday never entertained any adequate conception of its superb grandeur. Of all the parks we have visited, from Yellowstone to Druid Hill, including Lincoln, Portland park is the grandest. It may be said to cover an area of 160 miles, taking in Mount Hood, Mount Adams, Mount St. Helen, Mount Jefferson, etc., and is more lovely and picturesque than any European scenery. A very curious and interesting feature of attraction has just been added to the park in the form of a large pelican. This aquatic bird was captured on the 8th over on Tillamook bar by Jeff Whalen. He was over there on a hunting and fishing excursion, and one day while out in a boat saw the pelican winging its way over the waters. He fired at the bird, and though the distance was great he succeeded in creasing it. Thus disabled, the bird fell into the bay and Whalen sprang out to capture it. The pelican fought like a Turk, and came getting away with Whalen, pecking and beating him mercilessly; but it was finally overpowered and taken on board. The bird was safely brought over the mountains and today was turned over to City Park Keeper Myers. It has entirely recovered from the effects of the wound in the back and is very lively. This is a very large specimen, standing several feet high and measuring eight and a half feet from tip to tip. Mr. Whalen says this pelican belonged to the South Sea Islands. None like it has ever been seen along this coast, and it must have been brought over on some vessel from its native latitude. There are plenty of pelican over about Tillamook, but none like the one captured.

When the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows met in Topeka Kan., in 1890, they awarded the contract for printing the daily proceedings in book form to the largest printing office in that city. The proceedings of each day make a book of about 80 pages, and 4,000 to 5,000 must be delivered, ready for mailing, at the opening of the session the next morning, requiring a large force of printers and many presses. At Topeka the work could not be issued in time. When it was decided to meet this year in Portland, the body would not consent unless an office was found here that had the necessary facilities for publishing the work on time. Only one office was found equal to the task, that of F. W. Baltes & Co., who have completed the work in a manner very creditable to themselves and satisfactory to the Odd Fellows. The work required a force of 30 printers, and was done entirely at night, the copies being delivered next morning in time for the session. They have the largest plant on the coast, and deliver work at the rate of one complete job every 10 minutes, including every variety of printing.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

First Political Address of the Season Saturday Evening.

Business of a nature which could not be put off compelled the editor of THE CHRONICLE to be absent from the first political meeting of the season held at The Dalles Court house Saturday evening. But as Bro. Blaine paired his vote with a democrat in the recent Maine election, we believed we had a precedent, and selected our contemporary Morgan to help us out by reporting the speech for THE CHRONICLE. His conscience was all right, but policy prevents a report as we expected. Another gentleman who realizes the situation says: "You can honestly say that Col. Yeagley delivered a profound and convincing speech. He spoke fluently for more than an hour and a half, and although the audience was not as large as was expected and hoped for, yet those who were present were thoroughly appreciative and went away feeling that they had heard facts and reasonings which they had never before thought of. The Colonel is a sound republican, and all his expressions bear out the tenets of his party, and some men differ with him in this regard, yet there is not a right minded man who listened to the Colonel here but who is willing to admit that he is an able and eloquent orator, as well as one of the best reasoners that has ever held forth in this vicinity. Colonel Yeagley will leave for Boise City tomorrow, where he has an engagement to speak, after which he is to work all through the present campaign."

Oregon Press Association.

Portland Dispatch.]

The following is the program for the first day of the meeting of the Oregon Press Association to be held at The Dalles on Tuesday, October 4th, and continue in session for three days. Tuesday, October 4th, take the Union Pacific train from Portland at 8:45 a. m., and leave the train at the Cascades, where members will be met by a delegation from The Dalles, and from that time will be the guests of the latter city. A lunch will be served, after which all will be given an opportunity to view the government work at the locks. The association will convene in annual session on board the boat upon leaving the Cascades. The Dalles citizens having decided to escort the members of the association by boat from the locks to The Dalles. At 2 p. m. meeting to order. Roll call and addition of new members. Reading minutes of last session. President's annual address. Secretary's report, other reports.

SNIPES BANK ROBBED.

One of the Boldest and Most Daring Deeds of the Wild and Woolly West. A dispatch from Ellensburg Saturday says word was received here from Roslyn today that the bank of Abrams, Snipes & Company had been robbed. Five masked men rode up to the door at 2 o'clock and when they left they carried with them a sack of money said to be $10,000. Today was pay-day at the Roslyn mines and $40,000 arrived from Tacoma this morning. The robbers supposed the money was placed in the bank, though it was taken to the company's office. They executed their plan in a manner which would have done credit to the James boys.

Cashier Abernethy was writing when the first robber entered, and turned to wait on the supposed customer, but found himself facing a revolver. Dr. Lyons, who had entered just after the first highwayman, turned to go out, but instead dashed against a pair of revolvers in the hands of a second robber. The third confederate entered, picked up Cashier Abernethy's revolver and knocked him down with it. He rose, his head streaming with blood, and was told to keep quiet if he wanted to live. The third man then walked to the safe which was open, took out the coin and bills, shoved the money in a canvas bag and threw it over his shoulder. The three then went out, joining two more men who had been stationed so as to guard all the approaches.

S. A. Frazer, the assistant cashier, who was outside, grabbed a shotgun and made for the bank, when one of the robbers stopped his progress by placing a bullet in his hip. A colored man named Conoley was shot in the leg and several others had narrow escapes. One of the robbers held the reins of five splendid horses, and as soon as the vault was looted, all mounted. Then after firing up and down the street, they put spurs to their horses and dashed away, disappearing on the trail over the mountains north of Roslyn.

The sheriff was notified and a large posse started in pursuit. It is believed the robbers cannot escape, as the peculiar topography of the country will aid the officers. The manager of Abrams, Snipes & Co. arrived at Roslyn this evening and immediately offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the robbers. This is supplemented by an offer of the same amount made by Cashier Abernethy. The robbers were dressed as cowboys and showed themselves expert horsemen and gunners. President Snipes, of the bank, was here today and left for Roslyn, accompanied by Detective M. C. Sullivan.

Expeditious the Platform.

Geo. Ticknor Curtis, in a letter to the Economist, dated at Richfield Springs, N. Y., Sept. 10th, says: "In common with many other democrats, I cannot follow the leaders of the party in denouncing republican protection as a fraud upon the labor of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of a few; nor can I subscribe to the doctrine that a protective tariff is unconstitutional. I have no pecuniary interest in manufactures, but I know what protection has done and is doing for this country. If it operates for the benefit of the few, I am not one of that few. I am one of the many; one of the great majority benefited by it, including those who denounce it for the sake of obtaining political power. If the leaders of a political party assembled in national convention for the purpose of nominating candidates for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency choose to stultify themselves by falsifying history, they cannot expect to be followed by others who have any habits of independent thought and action. The learned pundits who were lately assembled at Chicago in national convention of the democratic party, adopted by a two-thirds vote, and against the report of the committee on resolutions, the following as a plank in the democratic platform: We denounce republican protection as a fraud upon the labor of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of a few. We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue only. We demand that the collection of such taxes be limited to the necessities of the government, when honestly and economically administered. "In drafting and voting for this resolution, the members either showed dense ignorance of American political history, or they manifested a purpose to win votes by deceiving the voters. I cannot, at the bidding of these gentlemen, unlearn the lessons of my whole life. The greater part of my long life has been passed in the study of American political history and constitutional law. If I cannot claim to be an authority on such subjects, I can point out to others the true sources from which to devise interpretations of the constitution. Those sources are not to be found in recent congressional speeches, whether made by members of one party or another. They are to be found in the interpretations given to the constitution by the first congress, by Washington's administration, and by the succeeding administrations, of Jefferson, Madison, John Quincy Adams and Jackson."

Death of Mrs. Wenzler.

Mrs. Ida Wenzler, daughter of Mr. W. E. and Mrs. A. M. Sylvester, of this city, died at 6 o'clock this morning, after a long period of sickness, covering about 14 years, aged 23 years 5 months and 5 days. The funeral will take place at the M. E. Church on Tuesday next, Sept 27, at 10 o'clock a. m. Friends of the family abroad have been notified by telegraph and are expected at that time.

A Traveling Man's Experience With Diarrhea.

I am a traveling man, and have been afflicted with what is called chronic diarrhea for some ten years. Last fall I was in Western Pennsylvania, and accidentally was introduced to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. I ventured to make a trial and was wonderfully relieved. I would like now to introduce it among my friends. H. M. Lewis, 24 Freeman street, Cleveland, Ohio. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists.
